

Lakeland Literary Festival

April 29, 2017 • Holden University Center • 9 a.m. – 4 p.m.

Join noted writers for a day of workshops and a vibrant book fair.

Keynote Speaker: Salvatore Scibona, Guggenheim Fellowship recipient, finalist for the National Book Award, Fulbright Scholar, and member of "The New Yorker" magazine's "Fiction Writers to Watch: 20 Under 40," will provide a talk and a special writing workshop for early registrants.

Phenomenal Women Presentation: Staged reading of "Phenomenal Women: Twelve Youngstown Stories," a book about the lives of 12 local African-American women.

Workshops: Accomplished writers will present workshops that will cover poetry, fiction, nonfiction, drama and translation.

Lakeland Poetry Competition Reading: Award ceremony for the winners of the 30th Annual Poetry Competition, with winners presenting their works.

Book Fair: Approximately 20 presses, magazines and organizations will feature their publications at a book fair.

Clocktower & Chagrin River Review: The book fair will also feature the launches of Lakeland's student literary and visual arts magazine, "Clocktower," and the 10th edition of its international literary journal "Chagrin River Review."

This event is free but registration is required.
