Where Should I Study?

Lakeland Community College
lakelandcc.edu
On the next slide, click on each of the four circles to see all the spots on the campus where you can study.

Choose from four different types!
Click on a circle to pick a place to study!

Where can I:

- Study with fewer distractions so I can focus?
- Study with some background noise?
- Study in a group?
- Study in a comfortable place?
Where can I study in a group?
• Library Group Room
• Library Collaborative Work Areas
• Breakers 2nd Floor
• Psychology Professor Barbara Garwood Student Lounge (S-211)
• Holden University Center Collaborative Rooms
• Holden University Center Hall Huddle Boards

Where can I study with fewer distractions so I can focus?
• Library Study Rooms
• Library Tables
• A-Building, 2nd Floor, Clocktower View
• B-Building, 2nd Floor Study Area
• B-Building, 3rd Floor Study Area
• D-Building, Alcove near President’s Office
• T-Building Study Room
• Holden University Center, 1st Floor Tables
• Holden University Center, 1st Floor Computer Lab
• Holden University Center, 2nd Floor Computer Tables
Where can I study in a comfortable place?

- Psychology Professor Barbara Garwood Student Lounge (S-211)
- C-Building Student Lounge
- L-Building Student Lounge
- Outside Breakers
- Courtyard
- Holden University Center Couches

Where can I study with some background noise?

- B/C-Building Breezeway
- C-Building Student Lounge
- C-Building 1st Floor Tables
- C-Building 3rd Floor Halls
- Breakers 2nd Floor
- Psychology Professor Barbara Garwood Student Lounge (S-211)
- H-Building 2nd Floor
- E-Building South Entry
- E-Building Hall Tables
- T-Building East Entrance
Where can I study with fewer distractions so I can focus?
Let’s start in the Library!

This very quiet study room in the northwest corner of the library offers natural light, private carrels and no distractions. C-3051g

The southeast corner of the library is another space that offers fewer distractions. While not quite as quiet as the study room, you can get away from it all at one of these tables.

“One of my favorite places to study is the library. I like to find a quiet corner, decompress a few minutes and do some reading or reviewing, usually by a window.”

—Brook F.
A-Building

On the second floor of A-building, just outside of the business offices, are a series of tables and study carrels. There isn’t much traffic in this area and it makes for a quiet study spot.
B-Building

On the second and third floor of B-Hallway is an enclosed area that overlooks the courtyard. This quiet area on the second floor is close to the English and Social Science offices.

Same deal on the third floor EXCEPT you are close to your Math and Social Science instructors!
C-Building

I often see students at work in the C-building Breezeway

Or hanging in the hallway outside of the library.
D & E-Building

D-Hallway, nestled next to the President’s Office is a quiet corner with a great view of the Clocktower and no distractions.

E-Building has a quiet area of tables in the hallway outside the engineering labs.
Opportunity starts HERE

Holden University Center

Solitude can be yours if you time it right. The booths on the east side of the Holden University Center offer a quiet space to spread out with your stuff and enjoy the view.

The second floor of Holden has computer stations and few distractions.

My favorite place to study was not on the main campus, but rather at Holden. --Damien M.
Where can I study with some background noise?
A-Building

Psychology Professor Barbara Garwood Student Lounge (S-211) on the second floor of A-Building is an awesome area where you can study with friends amidst the hub of activity.

Cell phones allowed, a little music, review your notes, no problem. Breakers, 2nd Floor.
C-Building

Head to the student lounge area on the first floor of C-Building. Cool chairs, cool tables, great views and snacks!

C-Building hallway on the first floor offers more spots to sit and study while life goes on around you.
Where can I study in a group?

The second floor of T-Building at the end of the hall in the Lantern is very comfortable and has a great view!

--Jennifer L.
Library

No reservations required!

The Library has special rooms and spaces for studying in groups. If you need a quiet space for group work, check out C-3051e. It has a big table, a big white board and windows!

There are several collaborative work areas available, too. All of them have plug-in power, white boards and room to spread out and get busy!
Holden has a variety of rooms and spaces to study. Many have dry erase boards, room to spread out with notes, textbooks and easy access to printers.

--Damien M.
The Learning Center

Reservations required!

Stop by the Learning Center in A-1044 to reserve this group study space. Amenities include a dry erase board, markers and lots of space to spread out!
H & T-Building

2nd Floor of H-Building.

2nd Floor of T-Building at the end of the hall in the Lantern. Nice and warm on a cold day!
Where can I study in a comfortable place?

The second floor of T-Building at the end of the hall in the Lantern is very comfortable and has a great view! --Jennifer L.
L-Building

This comfy spot is at the bottom of the L-Building steps just before you turn down the hallway to get to the AFC. Get some work done while your friends catch up on their favorite TV show. Not too loud, not too quiet, just right.
Think OUTSIDE the box…

OUTSIDE of Breakers Cafeteria!

Courtyard
No matter where you study, it helps to be organized! Consider the notebook organizational tips below and study anywhere!

Syllabus
Notes
Handouts
Quizzes/Exams
Study Guides
Opportunity starts HERE

Resources

Contact Student Success at 440.525.7492 for details.

- Success Coaching
- College Success Workshops
- Psychology 1050: Effective Studying
- Counseling 1300: Skills for College Success
- Tutoring!
- Writing Center
- Math in Minutes
- Counseling
- Student Accommodations